Nesting Certifications Chart

JT – Nesting concept. This means that if you have a certification for a higher level of care that should allow you to provide the lower level of care under that certification without getting a separate certification. This document lists the different categories with the nested certifications under that level of care. We'll go through column by column.

JT – Involuntary Inpatient and Residential Services. Does it make sense to be able to do the items listed? Or are there certain things that should not automatically be allowed under this certification?

Brooke E. - Yes, this seems to make sense - include the right services/categories.

Holly B. - yes, this particular chain makes sense.

Joan B. - I'm not understanding WDM under this category. Please explain further. Why under this category?

JT – should this certification allow you to do WDM or should it be on its own?

G'Nell A. - WDM on its own, no nesting

Joan B. - I just cannot think of any circumstance that anyone would provide this under Involuntary.

JT – Involuntary does include secure withdrawal management. What I'm assuming that you are thinking is in terms of E&T.

Joan B. - I like WDM carved out. Such a specialty.

JT – I think that will be the case for CSU/Triage. Anything aside from WDM that would not be appropriate?

Tom D. - There are reasons why there are various levels, I would simply be concerned about potential for Dilution of care. You have some clear separation of some services.

Joan B. - I can understand WDM included in VOLUNTARY residential as part of continuum of care. Plus, MAT is used in many residentials and used for detox purposes.

JT – add under voluntary.

Joan B. - Plus MAT is used in many residentials and used for detox purposes.

Holly B. - could we add language about could provide WDM with appropriate staffing/etc/training? my thought is in this covid world we are looking for ways to skip the ER to get people into beds and if we have permission to serve the person that walks through the door we can be more flexible.

JT – for next meeting. Review this chart and make some notes on recommendations. This will help us move through it more quickly. Michelle will send out with the notes.

Ann P. - Any providers on the call providing behavioral health services in the jails? Wondering if the jail-based services easily align with checking all the boxes noted today (e.g., assessment, ISP, et)?

Shirley M. - please resend info on 9/16/21. Michelle will send this information in the notes that will go out on Friday.
